Goizueta Business School’s goal is to provide every MBA student with the ability to take a leadership role in their own career journey - both during their MBA program and beyond.

Our philosophy is that managing your career is a leadership behavior, and this is especially true for students who earn their MBA while employed. Working Professional students have the opportunity to leverage multiple personal assessment tools, as well as the strong leadership and communication aspects of their MBA program as they develop in their current roles, and refine their longer term career goals. Students have access to the MBA CMC for Working Professionals, which provides dedicated career coaching, programs and resources specifically for working MBA students who are seeking to improve their career related planning and preparation.

- Experienced career coaches, available to students on campus, virtually and/or offsite, including evenings and weekends
- Workshops and webinars on specific career-related topics, both in class as well as optional lunch and evening sessions
- Networking events designed to enable industry and MBA alumni career connections

Goizueta offers year-round access to one-on-one career coaching. Our team is designed and staffed to support the individual career needs of the working MBA student. You can expect your Goizueta career coach to be available when you are, help you evaluate your career options, guide you on information sources and support, and help you develop a career action plan so that you can successfully execute a targeted job search. Whether you are exploring an expanded role in your current company, making a career change or taking your leadership to the next level, a coach can help you:

- Identify and define your career goals
- Explore career options and create a career plan
- Access resources and tools
- Devise a networking strategy to market yourself
- Critique your resume and cover letter
- Practice interviewing skills and salary negotiation
- Stay accountable to your plan

While your career coach is there to provide you with the support and resources you need to manage your career, you should not expect your coach to serve as an executive recruiter, write your resume or cover letter, schedule appointments for you, or make introductions and network for you. Career exploration, development and management is a personal journey and a life-long skill, possibly one of the more important skills you can develop. Your ability to make things happen – both now and in the future – is critical to your career success.
Goizueta Business School and Emory University have active and engaged MBA student and alumni groups who host activities throughout the year. Working Professional students have instant access to the networking and events that are hosted by these affinity groups. Examples are listed below:

Alumni Organizations:

- Goizueta Consulting Association (GCA)
- Emory Entrepreneur Network (EEN)
- Emory Alumni Consulting Group (EACG)
- Executive Women of Goizueta (EWG)
- Goizueta Alumni in Healthcare
- Goizueta Alumni in Real Estate
- Goizueta Alumni Mentoring Program

Goizueta Business School and Emory University offer a host of tools and resources to help you manage your career, both during and after your MBA program. The skills and the connections you will build through your MBA experience are designed to give you the confidence to take a leadership role in your career –now and into the future!
